

Editor's Comment:

The manuscript 2024/BP/12798F presents many typographical and grammatical errors, as well as inappropriate use of international units as you can see in the version revised by me with some corrections.

The bibliography used is very outdated and needs to be updated. The authors do not describe the statistical method used to compare the means of the variables.

Additionally, the figures need to be improved and better presented.

In the bibliography section, the structure of the cited references is incorrect and does not follow a consistent rule.

It is clear that the authors did not follow the recommendations of the reviewer Neu, as the manuscript still contains the spelling errors recommended for revision by this reviewer, as well as other technical aspects that have not been corrected.

For these reasons, I believe that the manuscript should be carefully reviewed by all authors before being published.
