

Editor's Comment:

I analysed the process in detail, including the revised chapter and reviewers reports, and mostly the modifications were done.

I noticed that the requested reference of A.H. Wheeb was not included in the text, but I think it is not fundamental and somehow deviates from the main subject of the chapter.

More than one reviewer requested to include specific improvements in the abstract, such as contextualization, details on the methodology, and directions for future work, but only minor changes were applied by the authors, which could have been better.

Overall, I consider that the chapter can be accepted and is actually a good contribution to the book "Science and Technology: Recent Updates and Future Prospects".
